B25ET1005 OOP, Practical-13

FAQ's

1) Which header file is required for file handling in C++?

→ The <fstream> header.

2) What is the difference between ifstream, ofstream & fstream?

→ ifstream : reads files
ofstream: writes files
fstream: reads & writes files.

3) Why should a file stream be checked after opening?

→ To catch errors like missing paths, missing files or permission denials.

4) What does rdbuf() represent in this program?

→ The underlying stream buffer is used for direct data transfer.

5) How can the program be modified for binary files?

→ By using the ios::binary open mode flag.

6) What is purpose of open() function?

→ To link a file stream object with a physical file.

7) What is the purpose of the close() function?
→ To flush pending output and release the system file resource.

8) What is ios:: in mode?
→ An open mode flag used for input (reading) operations.